Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Gerontology: Report to the 1989 General Assembly of North Carolina, 1989 Session Although there has been much past study in North Carolina on issues affecting the elderly, and although there are presently a good number of committees studying these issues, the Legislative Research Commission Study Committee on Gerontology alone has focussed on issues of the elderly as systematically determined and assessed and as related to the education, training, and services provided to caregivers of the elderly and to the elderly themselves. A program of services for the aging, including a comprehensive care system, should be preceded by reliable and valid information that describes the physical health. Mental health, and social and other human services needs of older adults in North Carolina, from the mountains. Through the Piedmont, and to the coast. (the following statistics are compiled from the American Association for Retired Persons publication A Profile of Older Americans: 1987.)
